WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—
The railroad inquiry before the senate committee on interstate commerce was resumed this morning. All the executives who have so far testified have stressed the point that the difficulties of the railroads during the past year and a half have largely grown out of the abnormal expense forced upon them, and which they were unable to meet even from the increased rates approved by the interstate commerce commission.

Messrs. T. DeWitt Cuyler, chair-Chinese-German

Messrs. T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives: Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific company; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and A. H. Smith. president of the New York Central railroad, have now filed with the senate committee a series of statements setting forth the belief of these executives that the railroad problem will be worked out satisfactorily under the existing law, and manifesting a measure of optimism in regard to the future outlook.

Mr. Kruttschnitt in his statement

"I do not want to be understood as pessimistic. I believe that the situation is clearing and will gradually clear, and that readjustment of the operating expenses of the railroads will produce a much brighter outlook and make it possible to effect more readjustments of rates with consequent benefit to commerce and industry generally.

"I believe the transportation act of 1929 was one of the best pieces of work that congress has ever done, and I should be extremely reluctant to see the act modified, amended or changed before it is given a fair chance to prove what it can do. I was a firm believer, and am still, in the act. There may be some points where the machinery is still operating with friction on some hot journals, but I think that wear will smooth them down, and it ought to be operating well. I should dislike extremely now to see it tinkered with or changed."

The rench note, to which the German memorandum is a reply charged should co-operate effectively in order to carry out the spirit of the act. The railroads are attempting to do that through several agencies, and particularly through a new agency, the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives.

"It is expected that substantial reduction will be secured in the price of fuel for 1921, in fact a number of contracts have already been made effectives as of April I, much under a number of contracts have already been made effectives as of April I, much under a number of contracts have already been made effectives as of April I, much under a number of contracts have already been made effectives as of April I, much under a number of contracts have already been made effectively in order to close the frontier, although the Polish border had been conference report to which the conference report to which white house, by a vote of 245 to 97, adopted the conference report to which the conference report to which the sentence of the creation of an office of live to make of its of the treasury at a sale of the conference report

WASHINGTON. May 23—After a heated discussion of the prohibition question during which Commissioner Kramer was bitterly criticised and as vigorously defended, the house today voted an additional $200,000 for enforcement of the Volstead act until July 1. Representative Volstead proposed the increase in the total of the deficiency appropriation bill to permit retention on federal payrolls of 700 prohibition agents who, Mr. Kramer announced, would be dropped for the remainder of the year because of shortage of funds.

The amendment was adopted, 77 to 38, less than one-fourth of the house membership being present, but another vote can be demanded before the bill is passed. Even the members who favored the amendament, however, doubted whether it is one created by congress and by ex.
